

2017 International Women's Football Leagues Addendum

Maritime Women's Football League (MWFL) – 2017 Season

After four straight MWFL championships, the Saint John Storm were heavy favorites to claim supremacy in Eastern Canada again in 2017. But the Storm were upset in a regular season contest by the Capital Area Lady Gladiators and suffered their first defeat since the 2013 MWFL championship game. That didn't quell the Storm for long, however, as they bounced back in the playoffs to capture their fifth consecutive MWFL championship over the Gladiators.

Championship game: Saint John Storm 7, Capital Area Lady Gladiators 6

Friendship Bowl: Halifax Xplosion 8, Moncton Vipers 0

Western Women's Canadian Football League (WWCFL) – 2017 Season

The seventh season of the WWCFL once again came down to the rivalry between the Saskatoon Valkyries and the Regina Riot. They split their two regular season meetings, setting up a playoff showdown between the Riot and the five-time league champion Valkyries. The Regina Riot knocked off Saskatoon for the Prairie Conference championship and then dominated the Calgary Rage in the WWCFL title game to win their second league championship in the last three years.

Championship game result: Regina Riot 53, Calgary Rage 0

Third-place game: Saskatoon Valkyries 44, Edmonton Storm 20

Campionato Italiano Football Americano Femminile (CIFAF) – 2017 Season

Italy's top women's football league celebrated their fifth season of play with four teams competing for the CIFAF title. After three straight Rose Bowl Italia losses, Neptunes Bologna rebranded themselves as Underdogs Bologna. For a time, it looked like the motivational name change would pay off, especially after they upset the two-time defending league champion One Team in the regular season. But One Team, based in Verona, took home their third straight national title, stopping the Underdogs in Rose Bowl Italia V.

Svenska Amerikansk Fotbollförbundet – Damer (SAFF-D) – 2017 Season

The Stockholm Mean Machines won the first four SAFF-D championships from 2012-2015, but in 2016, they were upset in the national semifinals. That loss created an opportunity for the Örebro Black Knights to claim their first SAFF-D title, and Örebro's quest to repeat led them to the 2017 league championship game against the powerful Mean Machines. The Black Knights stamped themselves as Sweden's newest women's football dynasty, taking out Stockholm in the national final to repeat as the SAFF-D champions.

IFAF Women's World Championships (WWC) – 2017

The city of Langley in Western Canada was chosen as the third host site of the IFAF Women's World Championships in 2017. After the United States, Canada, and Finland took the top three spots in the first two IFAF tournaments, sixth-seeded Team Mexico stunned the field in 2017 by taking the bronze medal in their international debut. Mexico defeated Great Britain in the bronze medal game, but the Brits did become the first European team to defeat Finland in IFAF play by prevailing in a thrilling 27-21 contest. Although the overall scores were much more competitive in the third edition of the WWC, Team USA again found themselves on top of the world, powering past the host Canadians for the gold medal.
